FOUND DEAD BY THE RAILROAD.

HENRY SMITH KILLED SUDDENLY.

His Body Horribly Mangled—An Employee of the Pomona Terra Cotta Works—Leaves a Wife and Child.

The dead body of Henry Smith, a white man, was found bes'de the railroad track about 250 yards this side of Mr. J. Van Lindley's residence at Pomona just before 12 o'clock last night. The body was terribly mangled and had evidently been run over by a train.

Dr. J. P. Turner, county coroner, was notified and went out and viewed the remains about 4:30 o'clock this morning. An inquest was deemed unnecessary and the burial of the body was ordered.

Smith was about 40 years old and was employed at the Pomona Terra Cotta Works. He leaves a wife and one child.

Just how the accident which ended his life occurred will probably never be known to a certainty. He was in Greensboro yesterday and was around the court house and in the Mayor's office, where he listed his taxes. He was drunking, though not very much intoxicated.

Just after the Winston train left yesterday evening he started home, walking along the railroad track. A watchman warned him of the danger and told him to get on the dirt road. Smith seemingly paid no attention to the warning, but walked on as far as the coal chute, when the watchman lost sight of him. No more was seen of him until his mangled remains were found by a negro man a few hours later.

It is probable that he lay down on the track and went to sleep, when a passing train crushed him to death. Both legs were broken just below the the hips and his body was otherwise bruised and crushed.

COLLISION ON THE COAST LINE.

The Fast Mail Dashes Into an Open Switch—Engineer Cheatham and a Tramp Killed.

Weldon, N. C., June 4.—A disastrous collision occurred on the Atlantic Coast Line, this morning, at Garysburg, near Weldon, in which two men were instantly killed and three seriously injured. Number 32, known as the Atlantic Coast Line fast mail train, ran into an open switch at Garysburg, resulting in a collision with some freight cars.

The killed are: Engineer Cheatham, one of the oldest engineers on the Coast Line, and an unknown white tramp, who was stealing a ride. The injured are: Mail Clerk McGeorge, seriously, may not recover; two colored firemen, seriously, if not fatally. None of the passengers were hurt. The baggage and mail cars were badly wrecked, and three other clerks beside McGeorge were injured but not seriously.

SURE FOR BRYAN.

New York Democrats Elect Delegates to Kansas City Today.

New York, June 4—Democrats from all quarters thronged the corridors of the Hoffman House today. They are here to attend the State convention in the Academy of Music tomorrow. The convention will eleet seventy-two delegates to Kansas City and instruct them to vote as a unit for the nomination of Bryan.

This convention is to be a one-day affair, according to the plans of the party leaders. It is to meet at 11 o'clock and John T. Norton, of Troy, is slated for temporary chairman. After he has delivered his speech and the committees have been announced there will be a recess for an hour or more. The building must be vacated by 5 o'clock in the afternoon and the present plan is to complete the conventions work by that time.

In answer to an inquiry from The New York World, Col. Wm. J. Bryan siated that he hoped the Boers would come to this country if they lost their fight, with Great Britian; that "they could well take the place of many Republicans who believe in the imperialistic policy of Great Britian."

HISSED MAYOR VAN WYCK.

Bryanites in Control of the New York Convention---Wanted the Mayor Put on Ice.

By Wire to the Telegram.

New York, June 5—The Democratic State convention, called to elect delegates to the national convention, and nominate presidential electors, and elect new State committee, met this morning in the Academy of Music at 11 o'clock. Bryanites are in control, and will instruct delegates for Bryan.

Elliot F. Danforth was chosen chairman. Tumultous cheering greeted the name of Bryan.

Richard Croker, David Bennett Hill and Augustus Van Wyck were elected delegates at large to the National convention.

The name of Mayor Van Wyck was hissed, and the cries of "put him on ice, put him on ice'"

After committees were appointed a recess was taken till three o'clock.

Frederick G. Schraub, of Lewis county, a Hill man, is chairman of the committee on resolutions. Senator McCorren said that Tammany had agreed to support the bimetallic platform of 1892, and to pass over the Chicago platform.

Strikers Blow up a Car in St. Louis.

By Wire to the Telegram.

St. Louis, June 5—A car with Company H of posee commitants was blown up today. The fifty men of the posse climbed out of the wreck and fired over the heads of three thousand rioters who were volleying them with sticks and stones. Two deputies were injured.

TORE OFF HER CLOTHES.

The Rough Way the Strikers Handled a Youug Woman for Riding on the Cars.

St Louis Republic.

Miss Pauline Hesser, who lives with Mr. and Mrs. William Tefney, at No. 5082 Cabanne, alighted from a Cherokee street car at Twelfth street and Geyer avenue yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock, and was assaulted by a crowd of men and women with stones and clubs. Her skirt and waist were torn from her body, and she was dragged by her hair for a distance of about twenty feet. Her body was badly bruised and her left arm was fractured.

Miss Hesser explained that she had been visiting her sister, who lives on Ohio avenue, and boarded a Cherokee car for the purpose of riding down town. When at Twelfth and Geyer the car stopped and Miss Hesser thought that a riot was about to follow. She hastily left the car and started east on Geyer avenue. A part of the crowd, she thinks, mistook her for one of the women who, it is said, are employed by the transit company to ride on the cars, and followed her. She was pushed to the ground and her dress was torn from her. She declared that she sought refuge in Schumaker's grocery store, on the northeast corner of Tenth and Geyer avenue, but was told not to enter there. She finally succeeded in getting into a house at No 804 Barry street. A little girl brought her her skirt, which had been thrown into a tree, and a friend loaned Miss Hesser a waist.

The assault was reported to Detectives Field and Sheehan, who accompanied Miss Hesser to Christopher & Simpson's Foundry at the corner of Eighth and Park, where T. H. Becker, Miss Hesser's brother-in-law, procured a buggy and accompanied her home.

Miss Hesser is 27 years old and is employed by Mrs. E. K. Tefney in a millinery store at Vandeventer avenue and West Belle place. She was suffering a great deal last night from the bruises and excitement incident to the attack. She told the detectives that she could identify some of those who attacked her.

ENTER PRETORIA AT 2 O'CLOCK.

HARD FIGHTING BEFORE CAPTURE.

The Fierce Work of Roberts on Sunday. Marched Ten Miles Over the Rolling Hills, But Was Unable to Continue the Pursuit and Bivouacked—Short Days in That Part of the World.

By Wire to the Telegram.

London, June 5—The statement that Pretoria was occupied was bulletined and posted at the office today. The official despatch announcing the victory is as follows: "Pretoria, June 5—We are now in possession of Pretoria. Official entry will be made at two this afternoon. There was hard fighting preceeding the taking of the city." But no report of casualties has been received.

ROBERT'S SUNDAY WORK.

The War Office this morning issued the following from Roberts, six miles of Spruit, the night of the fourth: "I started this morning at daybreak and marched ten miles, to within six miles of Spruit, both banks of which were occupied by the enemy. The West Somerset, Hornet, Bedford and Sussex mounted infantry quickly dislodged them on the south bank and pursued nearly a mile. Suddenly they found themselves under a heavy fire of guns well concealed, commanding the position. Our heavy guns of naval and Royal artillery, purposely placed in the front part of the column, were hurried to the assistance of the mounted infantry as fast as oxen and mules could travel over the great rolling hills surrounding Pretoria. The guns were supported by Stevenson's brigade and Pole-Carew's. They drove the enemy off after a few rounds.

"The Boers then attempted to turn our left flank, but the mounted infantry again foiled them. As they still kept pressing our left and rear word was sent to Ian Hamilton who was advancing in three miles of our left to inc ine toward us and fill the gap between the two columns. This finally checked the enemy, who were driven back to Pretoria. I had hoped to have been able to follow them up, but the days are very short in this part of the world and after two hours' marching we had to bivouac on the ground gained during the day."

CHINESE SOLDIERS BOLTED.

Tein Tsin, June 5—The officer who commanded the troops at Huang-Tsun when the Boxers attacked it says that two hundred of his men bolted, only fifty remaining. These fought well, killing a number of the Boxers. The troops who fled were badly cut up in an adjacent and broken country. He said sixty were killed and wounded. Some of the Boxers frightfully multilated. A guard of two hundred and fifty sent to Feng-Tai bolted when they heard of the trouble at Huang-Tsun.

THE EMPRESS DEFIANT.

Shanghai, June 5—The Chinese Gaxtee says it has the highest authority for stating that the Dowager Empress has ordered Tsungli Yanen to face all Europe rather than interfere with the boxer movement.

THE FEARFUL FAMINE.

A Description of the Starving Districts. Growing Worse.

London Dispatch.

Under date of Simia, May 3, the special correspondeut of the Standard, sent a report of the fight against the famine in India.

"Going from Madras to Bombay," he writes, "the traveller does not see one single patch of green, not even so much as a blade of grass, for hundreds of miles. The whole of the Madras and Bombay Deccan is simply one vast expanse of scorched-up, waterless upland. In many places hamlets have been completely deserted for months past, simply because there is no water within many miles of them. Springs and rivers which have never been known to fail before are now absolutely dry..

"Passing to the Bombay Presidency, we come to the part of India which, in the opinion of the Central Authorities, is the most severely afflicted of all. In other parts, notably in the native states of Rajputana, the mortality from starvation may be greater, mainly because the system of famine relief and the organization generally in such states are not so good as in British territory, but it is now generally admitted that certain parts of Bombay present the worst famine features in India at the present time.

"The latest official reports show that there has been no change in the conditions except for the worse. There is no abatement to the famine; things are merely getting slowly and surely more disastrous than before.

"One of the remarkable features of the present famine is that certain districts in the Bombay Presidency, hitherto reported to be the most fertile perhaps in all India, are now the most affected. In ordinary times the country around Baroda and Ahmedabad presents an aspect of extraordinary fertility. At the present moment it is in this very tract that the worst features of the present famine are to be found. The people are literaly dying of starvation. The greater portion of the cattle, the celebrated breed of Gujarat, are already dead."

Cotton Acreage.

Latham, Alexander & Co., of New York, have issued a circular of date June 2d, giving an estimate of the cotton acreage of the United States for the current year.

It is based upon 2,577 letters, of average date May 24th, and the increase in acreage is shown to be 5 4-10 per cent. over last year. Every State shows an increase, from Texas, 2 per cent. to Florida, 17. The increase in North Carolina is 10¼ per cent. The average planting of the crop in the cotton-growing States is 15 days later than last year, and crop conditions this year are not as promising as at the same time last year.

Wouldn't Add Strength.

SCOUNDRELS AND SHYSTERS.

SO SAYS AN OLD-LINE REPUBLICAN.

Speaks Out in Meeting Against Pritchard, Holtem & Co.—The "Gang" Has Made Back Numbers of Old and Tried Republicans.—Political Tricksters and Frauds Should be Exposed.

Some days ago the Telegram published an interview between 'Squire J. A. Pritchett and Mr. A. E. Holton, the Republican State chairman, in which the former told the latter some very plain truths as to what constituted Republican principles. The interview was brought about by a rumor to the effect that 'Squire Pritchett would support the constitutional amendment, and the State chairman hastened to get him "in line." 'Squire Pritchett confirmed the rumor and told Mr. Holton that, while he yielded to man in loyalty to the the old-time principles of Republicanism, he refused to follow or be led by the tricksters and traders who are at the head of the party in this State.

The interview attracted much attention and has been widely copied and commented upon by the Democratic press of the state. It also attracted the attention of Republicans of principle and integrity, who have congratulated 'Squire Pritchett on his manly and patriotic stand. He is in receipt of the following letter from a well known and influential Republican in another section of the State, a man of recognized ability.

The letter speaks for itself and is given in the writer's own words:

"My Dear Sir:—Pritchard and his gang have made back numbers of us old and tried Republicans in this State. A bigger set of political scoundrels never before, since 1868-'70, infested the rank and management of the Republican party. Among its worst elements—Pritchard at the head—are in Greensboro. Their satelites and strikers and heelers are in every county to do their bidding and behests.

"To rid the party of such baneful political shysters is to openly and publicly put our feet down upon them on every occasion and expose them. Your way of doing it, and mine, are among the ways of doing it, and no one appreciated what you had to say to the 'd——n jay-bird-headed Holton' more than I did when I read it in the papers. The political tricksters and frauds should be exposed to public gaze by every good man." * * *

'Squire Pritchett's office is on East Sycamore street, where the above letter may be seen by any doubting Thomas.

RETAILING AND OTHER OFFENCES.

Several Offenders Before the Mayor Yesterday Afternoon.

The Mayor again had a full court yesterday afternoon, sending several offenders on to the Superior Court.

Jim Yews, colored, was called to account for driving a loaded wagon on the sidewalk. Jim pleaded ignorance of any intention of violating the law, saying he acted according to the instructions of his employer, whereupon he was let off on the payment of costs.

Annie Hill, otherwise known as Annie Rooney, was bound over for cutting Margaret Norwood, a colored female friend, with a knife. Bad whiskey and a negro man were at the bottom of the trouble.

Lindsay Morehead, colored, was very drunk Sunday and used profane language on the street. He was ordered to pay a fine of $2 and costs.

Two colored sisters of different names—Sue Foster and Bettie Blair—had a fight in Duplin, in which a table, a stove and a skillet lid played an important part. They paid a fine of $1 each and costs and went their way rejoicing.

Sarah Gardner was indicted for retailing on a warrant sworn out by Charles Williams. After he had been sworn, Charles denied that he ever bought any liquor from Sarah. He got gay and talked rather insolently to the prosecuting attorney, whereupon the Mayor threatened to send him to jail. This settled Charles and he was very respectful in giving the remainder of his testimony, though it was plain that he was lying. On the testimony of other witnesses the defendant was sent on to court.

Sarah's husband, Henry Gardner, was also charged with retailing, but the evidence was not sufficient to convict him.

On the testimony of I. E. White, John Wharton, colored, was bound over in two cases for selling beer. He was placed under a bond of $100.

CALLERS AT THE WHITE HOUSE.

BIDDING THE PRESIDENT GOOD-BYE

But Many of His Visitors Wanted Favors. Members Find Plenty of Time to Get Their Small Matters Through—A Marriage at the Capitol.

Special to the Telegram.

Washington, June 5—At the White House the number of callers yesterday was unusually large. Many members called for the last time this session to bid the President farewell before departing for their homes for the recess of Congress. Many of the members will not see the President until after the November elections, so naturally the approaching presidential campaign was referred to. Among the callers, however, were a large number who had business of importance with the President, such as requesting appointments, etc. As the session draws to a close the members become more anxious to have the President dispose of nominations in which they are interested, and consequently much pressure is being brought upon him.

Among the callers were many Democrats as well as Republicans. As a rule the Democratic congressmen were those who served in the House with the President when he was a member of that body, and they merely called to pay their personal respects before leaving the city for their homes.

Among the members of both houses who called at the Executive mansion, there is not the least doubt but Congress will be ready to adjourn Wednesday night. At that hour the final end will come cannot be stated, and many think that the session is likely to be extended far into the night.

Most of the time in both houses as the session nears its final end is being taken up with the consideration of conference reports on the various appropriation bills. Yet notwithstanding this the members of both the Senate and House find considerable time in which to get their small matters of legislation through.

Dr. B. C. Keister, a well known physician, of Roanoke, Virginia, was in the city the latter part of last week, remaining here for several kays. Dr. Keister was on his way to Atlantic City, where he goes for the purpose of attending the meeting of ths American Medical Association, of which he is a member. Dr. Keister is also a delegate to the Congress of Professional Medicine, which assembles at Paris during the Paris Exposition. He called at the State department last week for the purpose of securing his credentials and passports.

A wedding of interest to Virginia and North Carolina, will take place at the residence of the bride in this city Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m. The parties are Miss Elizabeth Carter Ball, daughter of Captain G. Washington Ball, formerly of Virginia, and Dr. Giles Cook Lane, of North Carolina. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. A. R. Stuart. The couple will reside in North Carolina.

Col. and Mrs. John S. Morehead, of North Carolina, who have been spending the winter and spring in Washington, on June 18th will close their home in this city and return to their home in North Carolina. They will spend the month of August at White Sulphur Springs.

Mr. Malcomb Bryan, a well known citizen of Roanoke, Virginia, is in Washington on personal business, stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel. He will be in Washington for several days.

Fattening the Ortolan For Eating.

The height of luxury is a well-cooked ortolan, the little bird celebrated for the exquisite delicacy of its flesh. The birds are fattened artificially for the market. They are kept in a room the floor of which is strewn plentifully with millet seed and corn, and from which daylight gradually is excluded. The ortolans have nothing to do but eat, and, under these conditions, says a writer of an interesting article on the ortolan in the current number of Pearson's, Magazine, they pass the last five or six weeks of their existence. Gradually the feathers of the body drop out, and the bird becomes a mere ball of fat with wings and a feathered head. Gently handling it, the operator picks up the bird and dips its beak into champagne, with the result that the bird dies suddenly and painlessly.—N. Y. Press.

A WOMAN CUT BY A BURGLAR.

Some Unknown Person Broke Into the House and Attacked Her With a Razor, Severely Cutting Her---Cut the Little Baby, too.

Lincolnton Special to Charlotte Observer, 4th.

Sunday morning about 1 o'clock some one broke into the residence of Mrs. Joseph Stroup, about one mile from Iron Station, in this county, and went to the bed in which Mrs. Wm. Foushee and her daughter, Mrs. Reep, were sleeping, and began to assault Mrs. Reep with a razor. The household was aroused, but before help came the villian had suceeeded in cutting Mrs. Reep up in a horrible manner. She received a gash across the left cheek, a shallow gash across the throat, three gashes to the bone across the left arm and three large gashes across the thigh to the bone. Mrs. Reep had her little baby in bed with her and it also received several shallow gashes. The person was not discovered when he forced open the door. The mother of Mrs. Reep woke up first and grabbed the person and succeeded in wrenching the razor from from his hand. About that time the three women sleeping in the adjoining room awoke and came to their assistance with a gun, which was snapped at the person in the dark, but the gun did not fire. The person then leaped through the upper sash of the end window, carrying the sash with him. There was no man living in the house, and the women were afraid to leave the house until daylight.

Then the news was given to the neighbors and a search was begun Bloodhounds from Gastonia were gotten on the scene of the cutting by 11 o'clock the next morning and ran a trail for about two hundred yards, where they found the person had stopped and apparently laid down. He left blood and one suspender on the ground. The hounds trailed him on for about one mile from the house and there lost the trail and could not strike it again.

The news quickly scattered over the county and by 2 o'clock in the evening several hundred citizens had gotten together and searched the woods for a distance of at least four miles and found no further trace. Blood was found in a buggy at or near the Lincoln Mills this morning and it is believed that the person stopped to rest in the buggy. Every effort is being made to catch him. The person succeeded in escaping without being recognized.

The people of the eastern part of the county are very indignant over the outrage.

Mrs. Reep and Mrs. Foushee live near Cherryville and were visiting their relative, Mrs. Joe. Stroup, who lives in the Iron Station neighborhood, with her daughter and granddaughter. The family is composed of respectable people.

SHOOTING IT OUT IN TEXAS.

A Sheriff and Two of His Kinsman Killed In a a Battle at a Court House.

San Augustin, Texas, June 4.—Three prominent men gave up their lives in a shooting affray at the court house today. They were: Felix Roberts, correspsndent of the Galveston News; Sidney Roberts and Sheriff Noel Roberts.

A few weeks ago Sheriff George Wall was shot to death by Curd Borders, as the result of an old feud. Wall's nephew, Noel Roberts, was appointed sheriff.

Last Saturday the second life was taken in the quarrel, when Eugene Wall, son of the murdered sheriff, killed Benjamin Brooks, a member of the opposing faction.

Today the contending factions met in the court house here. All were heavily armed and quickly lined up for a battle. The sheriff and two of his family fell before the deadly fire of their enemies.

More trouble is feared, as many of the dead men's friends have started to the scene from Nacogdoches. Telegrams have been sent to Governor Sayers requesting him to call out the militia.

We telephoned to the intelligence office for a cook. As Annie was the only name given on her card from the office, we inquired her surname.

"Annie," I said, "what is the rest of your name?"

"That is it," was the reply.

"Yes," I continued, "I know your name is Annie, but Annie what?"

"That is it," I tell you, missus," she said, with a broad smile.

"You have two names, surely," I insisted, "a first name and a second name. Now, what is your second name?"

"Oh, missus," she exclaimed, with some impatience, "I tell you that is it."

With rising displeasure, thinking she was trifling, I said: "Your name is Annie what?"

"Oh," she cried, enthusiastically, "I am so glad you know! I think you will never know. Yes; that is it."

For a while I sat in silent despair, the girl eyeing me with rueful countenance. Finally a happy thought struck me.

"Annie," I asked, very mildly, "what is your father's name?"

"Michael," was the doleful reply.

"Michael what?" I almost gasped, feeling that I had suddenly become a parrot.

But like the eternal "Nevermore" of Poe's "Raven" came the echo, "That is it."

A sudden illumination! Perhaps mine is the dull brain.

"What do you put on your father's letters?" I next interrogated.

"That is what I must put on or he would not get them," was the sobbing response.

Unwilling to give up after such a trial of patience on both sides, I asked gently, "How do you spell it?"

Slowly came the solution of the enigma, "W-a-e-h-t."—Lippincott's.

How Fido Supplied the Three Missing Rolls.

Orchestra gives an imitation of an earthquake dancing rag-time in a tinshop. Enter the man with the green whiskers and the man with the bald wig and blue face, and the following conversation ensues:

"Know that little dog of mine?"

"The one that looks like your sister?"

"Yes; the one—no, he doesn't look like my sister! Well, every morning I send him to the baker—"

"And have him baked."

"—And have him baked—no I don't have him baked! I send him to the baker to get a dozen rolls for breakfast. Well, day before yesterday I sent him, and when he came back three rolls were gone. So I beat him."

"To the rolls."

"I beat him to the rolls—no, I didn't beat him to the rolls! I beat him with a bedslat. So I thought I would give him another trial. I thought since his licking I could trust him."

"Though the baker wouldn't."

"Though the baker wouldn't—of course the baker would trust him! And when he got home yesterday morning three rolls were missing again. I reached for the bedslat again—"

"And the bed broke down and cried."

"And the bed broke down—no, the bed didn't break down! What do you think that dog did?"

"I give it up."

"He laid down and rolled over three times."—Indianapolis Press.

The engineer misunderstood the signals and there was a frightful railroad collision, with terrible loss of life. The whole country was appalled by that accident.

There is doubtless a far greater loss of life occurring every day, in various sections of the country, for which the only excuse is,—"the doctor didn't understand the symptoms." These cases are not the subjects of special inquest or the country would be aghast at the sacrifice of life to ignorance.

It has been the experience of Dr. R. V. Pierce and his staff of assistant physicians, that ninety-eight out of every hundred persons submitting to their treatment can be cured. People given up by the local physicians, weak, emaciated, with stubborn coughs and bleeding lungs have been absolutely cured by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All letters are held as strictly private and treated as sacredly confidential. Answers are mailed in plain envelopes without any printing on them.

"Last spring I was taken with severe pains in my chest, and was so weak I could hardly walk about the house," says Mrs. G. E. Kerr, of Fort Dodge, Webster Co., Iowa. Before I had taken the first bottle I was very much better; I took five bottles of it and have not yet had any return of the trouble."

BLOOD POISON.

Mercury AND Potash Make Wrecks, Not Cures

In some cases the external signs of Contagious Blood Poison are so slight that the victim is firmly within the grasp of the monster before the true nature of the disease is known. In other cases the blood is quickly filled with this poisonous virus and the swollen glands, mucus patches in the mouth, sores on scalp, ulcers on tongue, sore throat, eruptions on skin, copper colored splotches, and falling ha and eyebrows leave no room for doubt, as these are all unmistakable signs of Contagious Blood Poison.

Doctors still prescribe mercury and potash as the only cure for Blood Poison. These poisonous minerals never yet made a complete and permanent cure of Contagious Blood Poison. They drive the disease back into the system, cover it up for a while, but it breaks out again in worse form. These powerful minerals produce mercurial rheumatism and the most offensive sores and ulcers, causing the joints to stiffen and finger nails to drop off. Mercury and potash make wrecks, not cures, and those who have been dosed with these drugs are never after free from aches and pain.

S. S. S. acts in an entirely different manner, being a purely vegetable remedy; it forces the poison out of the system, and instead of tearing down, builds up and invigorates the general health. S. S. S. is the only antidote for this specific virus, and therefore the only cure for Contagious Blood Poison. No matter in what stage or how hopeless the case may appear, even though pronounced incurable by the doctors, S. S. S. can be relied upon to make a rapid, permanent cure. S. S. S. is not a new, untried remedy; an experience of nearly fifty years has proven it a sure and unfailing cure for this disease. It is the only purely vegetable blood medicine known.

Mr. H. L. Myers, 100 Mulberry St., Newark, N. J., says: "I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that the doctors could do me no good I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved, and was delighted with the result. The large, red splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass."

IF NOT FOR BURGLARY, NOTHING.

We have been much interested in noting a discussion going on regarding the death penalty as a punishment for burglary. North Carolina, of course has such a law, but some States have not, hence the discussion. There is, we believe, greater reason for it for this offence than for any other. Without probable death stirring a would be criminal in the face for this crime, there would be greated incentive to commit it than any other of so serious a nature. As a rule, men have a natural antipathy for taking the life of a fellow man, and hence there is some natural restraint against this crime. Would-be-perpetrators of the nameless crime are deterred by the certain knowledge that their crime will meet a sure and speedy punishment But there is nothing to deter men from committing burglary except the knowledge that, even though the chances of their detection and capture are few, they must suffer certain death if caught.

Then, when a man lies down to sleep at night, so far as his own faculties are concerned, he is absolutely helpless. It is the time, if ever, that he needs the protection of his country's laws. He has surrendered at the dictates of tired nature the power of his own arm to repel a danger, and relying upon his country's laws for safety, he must be, for the sake of himself, and society, assured as near as possible of absolute safety. The burglar slips in, with hand on trigger, with murder already accomplished in his heart, ready at a moment's notice, at the stirring of a finger, or the unconscious twitching of an eye lid, to send the helpless victim into eternity. It has ever been an unwritten code that death is not so hard nor the crime so heinous where the victim has an opportunity to defend himself or fight for his life. No false sentiment of humanity should hold up the just penalty of death upon a burglar, whether murder has or has not been committed.

IN GOOD SHAPE IN NEW ENGLAND.

A good deal has been, and is being, said, by way of comparison of the Southern and New England cotton mills. We are apt to get out of it the idea that New England will shortly be hard put, perhaps bankrupt, which latter is of course a great mistake. In the Washington Post's column of gossip with hotel guests, we find this:

"New England is protesting against Southern competition in the milling industry," said Mr. Edgar Young, of Boston, at the National. "It is asserted that the North cannot meet the low-paid labor of the South. It is also asserted that many of the mills are losing money. Perhaps that is so. In a recent New England publication, however, I read that many of our mills were paying dividends as high as 75 per cent. The publication may have been in error. I know nothing about that. I do know, however, that the mills are running night and day. I know that there are very few idle persons in any of the New England States in which cotton mills are located. I know that labor is receiving good wages. I know that none of the mill owners have had to rummage through the garret to find their last summer clothes. There are many more things I know about the milling situation. I will say that the Northern mill owner at present has no cause for complaint. What will happen when the Southern mills have been fully developed will be left for some one else to say. But at the present time the milling business of New England is in better shape than ever before in the history of the country."

There is every reason why the milling business should be in good shape in New England now. If mills cannot make money in the present state of business it is hard to see when or how they can do so at any time. It is not yet a question of serious competition between the two sections in seasons of prosperity when there is work for all, that is calling the attention of the country to itself. It is the fact that Southern mills were largely able to maintain themselves during the period of business disaster, while New England mills were so largely idle or running on very short time and low wages. It is this ability to maintain themselves in some way, by lower wages or otherwise, during seasons of depression, that will finally cause our mills to grow so that their production will be improved in both quality and quantity to such an extent that New England mills will cease to pay any 75 per cent. dividends, or any other larger ones.

We are progressive in some things and slow in others. The census of Germany and that of England are taken in a day.—Atlanta Journal.

Ours is taken quickly enough. It is the interminable wait for the publication of the results that is wrong. People get the results only in time to clear them out of the way in time for another census.

Boston forgets her graver sins to raise a howl over the sale of lottery tickets in her sacred precincts.—Atlanta Journal.

Boston has no sins, and she is not raising any howl. All of her time is used in casting first stones at her sinning sisters.

The dispatches are already begining to speak of the late Orange Free State as the Orange River district in a very natural way.

COLLEGE COMMENCEMENT.

Graduation Exercises Today—A Very Fine Musical Program — Another Surprise Marriage.

Special to the Telegram.

Charlotte, June 4.—The commencement contest at Elizabeth College takes place tonight. The program consists of three parts. The concert is given by the music graduates. The third part is a symphony, the Toy Symphony, by Romberg. Besides the violins, 'cello, organ and tympanum, a novel feature of part three of the program will be the toy instruments, as follows:

Cuckoo, Miss A. Haines; triangle, Miss L. Hollman; quail, Miss M. Crowell; drum, Miss A. Nurnberger; trumpets, Misses Muller and Watkins; rattte, Miss Seagle; nightingale, Miss Geherken.

The commencement exercises and graduations will take place Tuesday.

Another surprise marriage occurred here this morning, when Miss Jessie Mullen, a popular young lady of Charlotte, and Mr. Gray Barber suddenly announced their purpose of being married. A minister was sent for and in a short time the knot was tied. The couple leave for Salisbury this evening.

The Peters & Ring Stock Co. open a season's engagement at Latta Park tonight. The plays will be given nightly during the summer in the auditorium.

The Postal Telegraph management here say the company may not reach Asheville for a year yet. They will work towards that point from Statesville and from the Tennessee side.

Death of Mrs. Governor Bob Taylor.

News was received here last night of the death of Mrs. Fannie L. Taylor, wife of the former governor of Tennessee, at her home in Knoxville. She had been ill for several weeks, but her death was not expected.

Mrs. Taylor was a sister of Mrs. Gaston W. Ward, of this city. She was reared in Asheville, where another sister, Mrs. Judge H. B. Carter, resides.

The census enumerators for Greensboro are progressing very well with their work, though occasionally they find trouble. ### READ HIS OWN OBITUARY.

How a Texas Editor Painted up Congressman Cooper, Who Recovered.

Washington Post.

"I am one of the very few men who have had the extreme satisfaction of reading my own obituary," said Congressman Sam B. Cooper, of Texas, last night at the Metropolitan. "I have been ill down home for several weeks, and at one time, they tell me, there came very near being a vacancy in the Second Congressional district and an opportunity for eulogy in the House of Representatives. Just as an enterprising little sheet down in my district was about to go to press brimful of the latest happenings, the startling information reached the ears of the busy editor that I was dying. Hurriedly he seized his pencil and dashed off a half column, anticipating, I suppose, that he had a scoop on his rival, as he had the news fresh from my bedside that Cooper was breathing his last. 'By the time this reaches our readers Sam Cooper will be numbered among the hosts of those who have gone to that bourne from whence no traveler returns,' or something to that effect, ran the story. Then he proceeded to recite a brief history of my life, to chronicle the virtues and 'manly character' of the deceased, and to recount his valued services to his party and the nation, all embellished in such a beautiful outburst of eloquence as only a Texas editor can command. He told what a great loss the State of Texas had sustained, and how I would be mourned by a host of friends, and, I suppose, had it not been so near press time, would have suggested the name of my successor. Well, to curtail an extended narrative, the obituary was printed, and here I am fully recovered and feeling better than an entire cemetery of dead men. When I read that tribute to my memory I almost wished that I had died in order not to spoil a good story, and it all goes to show that a man has got to pass off in order to get pleasant things said about him."

RESPECT FOR MRS. JEFFERSON DAVIS

The Remarkable Treatment of Her by a Northern Audience.

Charlotte News.

Sectional feeling in this blessed land of ours must indeed have passed away forever when such an incident as that which occurred in the city of New York could be chronicled as a fact. At the dinner of the Sons of the American Revolution, which was attended by over 400 representative men and women, a remarkable demonstration occurred. While the orchestra was playing one of our national hymns, "Dixie," a gray-haired lady, in widow's weeds, entered. The diners at once arose as did all the spectators on the floor, and in the gallery, to wave their handkerchiefs in an enthusiastic greeting to a venerable but sprightly woman, whose gentle face smiled down upon them amid tears. The lady was Mrs. Jefferson Davis, and before the evening had passed every prominent guest had visited her box to pay his or her respects to the widow of the former Confederate President. It was a generous, spontaneous, heartfelt greeting. If any one 20 years ago, had said that such an incident was possible in the great Northern mstropolis, he would have been thought crazy. Truly we are a united people, with one country and one flag and long may it wave.

Mr. Bryan's View of Trusts.

This is the way Mr. Bryan views the trust question:

"Instead of shutting a monopoly out of one State and leaving it forty-four States to do business in we should shut it up in the State of its origin and and take other forty-four away from it. This can be done by an act of Congress making it necessary for a corporation organized in any State to take out a license from the Federal government before doing business outside of that State, the license not to interfere, however, with regulations imposed by other States."

MASTERFUL MAN WINS WIFE.

Seizes Bride In Rival's Sleigh and Drives to a Parson.

"I don't feel that I love you as once I did. Another man has won me and on Thursday afternoon I am going to marry Phineas Sawyer."

Thus wrote Winnie Rogers, of Houlton, Me., to her trusting sweetheart, Nathan Lermond, then in Boston. He is a man of action, and as a result the intended bride of another man is to-day his wife. He is happy, but the other man lies at death's door, with small chance of life. Winnie Roger's people are wealthy and she is nineteen years old.

Lermond boarded a train within half an hour after he received Winnie's letter and reached Houiton at noon. An hour later he had reached the Sawyer home, twelve miles away, where Winnie was boarding while teaching school, his horse hardly able to stand. He arrived just in time to intercept the bridal couple as they were leaving for the church.

"Winnie," said Lermond, "you cannot marry that man. You first promised me and you must marry me. Get into my sleigh at once, for I am the only man you will marry to-day." Young Phineas Sawyer sat like a statue by the side of his would-be bride. He could not utter a word. Lermond's horse, exhausted by the terrific driving, fell down and Sawyer, laboring under excitement, jumped out of his vehicle.

Hardly had he left the seat before Lermond took his place, and, lashing the horse with mighty strokes, drove toward the town of Linnens, with the frightened Winnie. They came back in an hour, and Winnie said that she was now Mrs. Lermond. Young Sawyer began to act strangely, moaning and crying for Winnie. He then went down behind the barn and tried to drown himself in a shallow pool. He may live.—Chicago Chronicle.

DIVERSION IN CENTRAL AMERICA.

There Only in the World Is the Adventurous Spirit Happy.

"Central America is the only place on this hum-drum hemisphere where life still runs red," sighed a young gentleman who holds a very good position in a Poydras street commission house. "It is the last ditch of romance, the one spot where the sword is mightier than the pen. I wish I wasn't near-sighted and measured a little more around the chest. I'd go down there and break into the seventeenth century and have adventures that would make your hair curl."

"Y-e-es, life is very strenuous in Central America," said the head bookkeeper, who speaks Spanish and smokes brown paper cigarettes. "I went down there once myself and opened a general merchandise store t'other side of Chiquimula. My stock consisted chiefly of whiskey and cartridges, which were the two articles most in demand in that part of the country, but I also carried small side lines of tobacco, sardines and fancy percale shirts.

"One day a big nigger came into the store, smoked what was left of the tobacco, ate the last six boxes of sardines and put on all the fancy percale shirts, one on top of the other. Then he introduced himself as General Tomasso Somebodyorother, and told me to charge the bill to the army of liberation. While we were arguing about the matter a detachment of government troops came up looking for my colored friend, and blew the roof off the store with a small shell from a mountain howitzer. The general went one way and I went the other, but we both got caught, and the commandant promptly put me under arrest for harboring a notorious rebel. I was taken before the jefe politico, as they call their magistrates down there, and in order to square himself with the authorities Tomasso turned state's evidence and swore that I was the head and front of the revolution. The scoundrel had on all my percale shirts at the time he was giving his evidence, and I was so mad I couldn't talk coherently.

"Still, I think I would have been discharged if it hadn't leaked out that I had a couple of barrels of whiskey in the store. When the jefe heard that he ordered me locked up and confiscated my property for the use of the department. The American consul got me out eventually, and I came home in the steerage of a banana steamer."

"And have you never been back since?" asked the near-sighted young man.

"No," replied the bookkeeper, "I think I prefer a country where life runs light pink, instead of red. It's less wearing on the nerves."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

TEACHING GIRLS NEED.

Railroad Man Says They Should Handle Money More.

"Parents ought to teach their children the way of doing business," said Ticket Agent J. D. Brown, of the Lake Shore road, yesterday, "at least in connection with traveling. There are any number of highly educated girls who don't know any more about buying a railway ticket than they do about making a deed of a house and lot. The other day a young woman came into the office to purchase a ticket, which, with her berth, came to just $16. Evidently it was her first experience, and we all tried to make her feel as much at home as possible. She handed me a $20 bill in payment, and it so happened that I had no small bills to give her n change. I laid down four silver dollars in front of her, telling her that if she gave my another dollar I'd give her a $5 bill. At first she didn't seem to understand, and I repeated the proposition. Then she said: 'Oh, I couldn't do that, you know.'

"Evidently somebody had told her to beware of being flim-flammed. 'Well,' I said, 'let me show you. Just give me a dollar out of your purse.' She produced the dollar, which I stacked up against the four silver dollars which I had already counted out, and then gave her a new $5 note. She put the note into her purse and went away with a look that said as plainly as anything could: 'Without doubt I've been buncoed, but I don't know how!' So, I say, people ought to give the girls an opportunity to do a little business, especially in connection with travel."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

IRVING AND THE "SUPER."

The Famous Actor Received an Answer Which Satisfied Him.

There was one occasion when Sir Henry Irving received from one of the supernumeraries of the Lyceum an answer which seemed to satisfy him. It was the man's duty to say, simply, "The enemy is upon us," which he uttered at rehearsal in a poor whining way.

"Can't you say it better?" shouted Irving. "Repeat it as I do." And he gave the words with dignity, with all his well-known dramatic force.

"If I could say it like that," replied the man, "I shouldn't be working for twenty-five shillings a week."

"Is that all you get?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, say it as you please."—London Tit-Bits.

An odd excuse for burglary was given by a one-legged boy, aged 14. He broke into a hardware store in Kansas City and was captured. He pleaded he wanted to steal some tools which would enable him to make a wooden leg for himself.

Locusts Saved Them.

The Household Cavalry Composite Regiment being met by an overwhelming force of Boers, from which there seemed little chance of escape, the sky suddenly was darkened by an immense swarm of locusts, which fell between the troopers and the enemy. The Boers could not locate the cavalry and fired at random, wounding one or two men. The regiment, however, screened by the locusts, eventually galloped back safely to camp.—Exchange.

HER REQUEST.

There Was Only One More Thing Needed for Complete Happiness.

"Listen, my darling."

The youthful millionaire drew to his heart the beautiful girl who had promised to share his wealth and happiness, and in simple language began to recount what the future had in store for them.

"It has been my great wish," he said, "that you should have a home, not only commensurate with your position and my own, but one which will be a fit setting for your altogether sweet and delightful personality. And so for months now I have been engaged in a search after the best that money can buy, and the house I have had built especially for you is now complete throughout. Nothing has been omitted. Decorators and artists have bestowed their services, and all my resources have been taxed to provide our home with a suitable interior and with the most costly furniture. What do you say to this, my dear?"

"It is lovely," replied his betrothed, as she heaved a slight sigh. "There is only one thing more, dearest, that will make me completely and utterly happy."

"It shall be granted," exclaimed her enthusiastic lover. "Only tell me what it is."

The girl at his side stirred rapturously.

"How good of you!' 'she said. "I was only going to say that when we have moved into our new home I would like the privilege of furnishing it all over again to suit myself."—Life.

Just Getting Warm.

An East Indian prince, on his first visit to this country, suffered so continuously from cold that he contracted pneumonia and died.

He was cremated, and, after being some ten minutes in the crematory, an attendant opened a small slide in the side of the furnace to note the result. The prince was sitting bolt upright on the slab, and shouted: "Shut that door!"—Life.

The Bubbling Caldron.

The Chicago actress, seized by the Cannibal horde, struggled appallingly. "Unhand me, villains!" she shrieked.

"Not on your life!" observed the royal presence. "Chop off her tootsies. They would only keep the cover off, anyhow."

From which it appears that the vocabulary of the footlights is not unsusceptible of unsophisticated misconstruction.—New York Press.

The Charge Denied.

First Passenger—That is what you might call a musical conductor, eh?

Second Passenger—Naw. He's whistling ragtime.

In the meantime the car whirled merrily on, bearing its human freight toward home and hot sausages, joyous greetings of happy little ones and complaints about the delinquencies of the grocer and the cook.—Indianapolis Press.

WINE OF CARDUI

Woman's Crowning Virtue.

BELTON, Mo., July 27.

For years I suffered terrible pains every month and my doctor told me I could not be cured except by an operation. I felt I could not submit to that and was so despondent I had given up all hopes of a cure. My husband insisted on my trying Wine of Cardui and at last thank God I did try it. Last month I did not have a pain, and did all my work, which I had not done in seven years.

MRS. MINNIE LITTLE.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

Modesty is the crowning virtue of American women. It is the trait that all mankind admires. A modest woman is the most pleasing of all created things. Because of this becoming virtue thousands of women prefer to suffer untold miseries rather than confide their troubles to a physician, and to even think of submitting to an examination is revolting. They can't get their own consent to an operation. Wine of Cardui permits sensitive women to retain their modesty. With it they can cure "female troubles" in the quiet of their own rooms. If special treatment is required they can write to the Advisory Department of the Chattanooga Medicine Co., and their letters will be promptly answered by women trained in the cure of womanly weaknesses and irregularities. There should be no hesitation. Delayed treatment means a chronic condition. The longer postponed the harder to cure.

SUPPLY OF SHINGLES.

It Comes Largely From New Brunswick and Quebec.

Formerly all shingles made in the East were split from blocks and shaved by hand with a draw-knife. Those used in Maine, New Hampshire and part of Massachusetts were pine or shaved cedar, sixteen inches long. In other states eighteen inch shingles were used. In the shingle machines then made the saw struck the bolt at the end, sawing lengthwise of the block. This made a rough surface on the shingles, which was said to hold the water and made them rot quickly. In 1865 there began to come into use machines made in Gardiner and Bangor, Me., which cut the block on the side instead of the end. The shingles sawed in this way had a surface almost as smooth as if shaved, and were of the same thickness These machines caused a revolution in the manufacture of shingles. As the demand increased and cedar became scarce in southern Maine, manufacturers began to move toward the great northern forests.

The Phoenix mill, in Fredericton, New Brunswick, was changed from a long lumber mill and sixteen machines were put in that cut 224,000 shingles a day. In 1888 this mill passed into the hands of an American company from Calais, which erected a mill in Edmunston, New Brunswick, with seven machines. The logs for the Phoenix mill are cut in Aroostook county, Me., and driven down the St. John River. In May, 1888, the first shingle mill in northern New Brunswick sawing for the American market began operating at Dalhousie. The owner now has mills at Cabano and Notre Dame du Lac, in Quebec.

The cedar forests remaining in this part of the continent are in Aroostook county, Me., the northern counties of New Brunswick, and the counties of New Brunswick, Rimouski, Bonaventure and Gaspe, in Quebec. Here cedar grows large, and there are more trees to the acre than further south. It is found on the high land as well as in the swamps. In Nova Scotia cedar does not grow. In southern New Brunswick there is not enough left to supply ties for the local railroads. The locations named are the last of the cedar forests, and these are being rapidly denuded to supply shingles and railroad ties, and in a few years all will be cut. Good cedar lands should soon become valuable, as the area is so limited.

The low price of sixteen inch shingles has caused them to be used New York, where formerly only in Vermont, Connecticut and northern New York, where formerly only eighteen inch ones were sold. All the large mills near Rimouski, Quebec, except the new one at Cabano, are owned by Americans.—N. Y. Press.

NO INTERVIEWERS THEN.

How Founders of the Republic Got Their Views Printed.

The number of letters written by the fathers of the country during the Revolution and the first twenty years of government under the Constitution seems amazing at the present time. Letter writing appears to have occupied the place now taken by the public press. Letters of great length were constantly passing from one leader to another. It speaks volumes for the industry of the men of the time, for their letters were all in handwriting.

Those of Washington alone fill seven large volumes, and throughout his political career Jefferson was even more active with his pen. Sometimes when his letters were printed he must have wished he had not been so free. Throughout his residence in France he wrote most voluminously to Congress, his writings forming a running history of the time in Europe. After his retirement to Monticello he continued to write letters of great length to his friends in all parts of the Union, and in this wise his influence remained nearly as great as when he was in office.—Chicago Tribune.

The Cost of a War.

The Japanese Minister of Finance has recently published a report which gives an idea of the expense incurred by that nation in the war with China. This report covers a period of twenty-two months, from June 1, 1894, to March 21, 1896, although actual operations ceased about the end of April, 1895. The total expenses of military operations amount to $76,000,000, those for the marine being estimated at $18,000,000, making a total of $94,000,000. An itemized account is given, which shows that the transportation of troops and material reaches $19,000,000; provisions, $12,000,000; clothing, $10,000,000; pay roll, $8,000,000; arms and ammunition, $6,000,000; horses, $4,000,000; hospitals, etc., about $1,000,000. As to the marine the expenses are divided as follows: Vessels, $6,000,000; arms and ammunition, $5,000,000; pay roll and provisions, each about $600,000; clothing, $200,000. In order to meet these expenses the Japanese Government has collected a revenue equal to $113,000,000. The difference between the expenses and the revenue, or $19,000,000, has been turned into the treasury to be used as a reserve.—Scientific American.

WASTED EFFORTS.

Gen. Sternberg Saved His Money but It Did no Good.

Surgeon-General Sternberg of the army says that when he was going into the battle of Bull Run, the Irish sergeant-major of his regiment came to him with a big bag of gold coin weighing three or four pounds, and said:

"Doctor, I know that I'm to be kilt entirely, an' I want you to take care of this money an' see that it gets to the ould folks at home."

There was no time to remonstrate or to make any other arrangement, and, dropping the bag into the surgeon's lap, the Irishman hurried away to his place at the head of the column. All through two bloody days Dr. Sternberg carried the bag of gold with his surgical instruments, and it was a burden and embarrassment to him. He tried to get rid of it, but couldn't find any one willing to accept or even to share the responsibility, and he couldn't throw it away for the sake of the "ould folks at home."

Toward the close of the second day the surgeon was taken prisoner. He lost his surgical instruments and his medicine case, but clung to the gold, and, making a belt of his necktie and handkerchief, tied it about his waist next to his skin to prevent its confiscation by his captors. During the long, hot and weary march that followed, the gold pieces chafed his flesh, and his waist became so sore and blistered as to cause intense suffering, but he was bound that the "ould folks at home" should have the benefit of that money, and by the exercise of great caution and patience managed to keep it until he was exchanged with other prisoners and got back to Washington. There he found his regiment in camp, and one of the first men to welcome him was the Irish sergeant-major, who was so delighted to learn that the doctor had saved his money that he got drunk and gambled it all away the first night.—Washington Correspondence Chicago Record.

POWER OF RED RIBBON.

Induces Two Indian Maidens to Have Face Masks Made.

Two of the fairest maidens of the Winnebago tribe of the Indians went through an hour of abject terror the other afternoon, when they had their "faces pasted with white mud." The "pasting" was only the efforts of Hugo Loeb, sculptor, to get masks of the young maidens.

T. H. Roddy, the newly appointed chief of the Winnebagoes, brought the two girls to Chicago on a visit. Annie Bluering, the fairest of all Indian maidens, attracted the artistic eye of Mr. Leob, who asked to be allowed to made a mask of her face. Mr. Roddy led the two girls to Mr. Loeb's studio, and the mystery of the masks was explained. When everything was ready both girls declared evil spirits lurked in the plaster and refused to go.

"Chocolates," said Mr. Loeb. Both maidens became attentive at once. Mr. Loeb made the mistake of feeding them a pound of chocolate before he completed his work. All the explaining of Mr. Loeb and the commands of Mr. Roddy were of no avail.

"Red ribbons," suddenly said Mr. Loeb. He brought forth several yards of the reddest of red ribbons, and both girls made a rush for them.

"After I have taken the mask," said the sculptor, with a winning smile. The bright colors proved too great an attraction for the young Indians, and with the reward of ribbons suspended from a gas bracket they at last permitted their faces to be covered with the plaster.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Editing a Proposal.

The young man took a piece of paper and pencil from his pocket and laid the paper on his knee.

"I will have something important to say to you in a minute, Miss Jones," he said.

Then he read over carefully what he had written and crossed out a word.

"Superfluous," he said, half to himself.

He went over it again and crossed out another word.

"It's just as strong without that," he muttered. "We are all too prone to use adjectives and adverbs, anyway."

He picked up the paper and seemed about to begin to read from it, but suddenly stopped.

"That whole sentence might as well come out," he said. "The meaning is perfectly clear without it. Conciseness is really the crying need of the hour."

Then turning to the girl he said: "Be mine."

Thus we see the power of habit. For years his duty had been to edit the "copy" of prolific correspondents.—Chicago Post.

Were Not Together.

After the decease of the late P. T. Barnum the "Greatest Show on Earth" continued for a while to use the magic of his name. Once, when nearing Hartford, it sent free tickets to clergymen there. Among the letters containing tickets was one addressed to the Rev. Dr. Joel Hawes, who had died some years before. The letter was sent to Dr. George L. Walker, then the active pastor of the First church. On reading it Dr. Walker is reported to have said: "A letter from P. T. Barnum to Dr. Hawes! Mr. Barnum is dead and Dr. Hawes is dead. It is evident that they have not met yonder."—Argonaut.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and othaches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to moke you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. For sale by Grissom & Fordham.

DYSPEPSIA

"My wife suffered for many years from Nervous Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Sleeplessness and Nervous Debility," writes John Kelloes, Philadelphia. "We tried many physicians and numerous remedies, but with no results, until I heard of Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure. We bought six boxes, and the results far surpassed our expectations. She now eats and sleeps well, is gaining in flesh, and her color, which had got to be yellow and sickly, is now as fresh as when we were first married, and I tell her that Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure has made her ten years younger."

CATARRH CAN BE CURED BY
Johnston's Sarsaparilla
QUART BOTTLES.

"DANGER IN THE EARTH AND AIR; DANGER EVERYWHERE."

A Wise and Venerable Doctor Talks about Advanced Science.

In a leading hotel, in a great city, a famous and aged physician was conversing. Listening to his wise and sententious discourse, were a group of well dressed men, evidently lawyers, business men and commercial travelers.

My firm belief, is "that medical science is certain yet to show that all diseases without exception are caused by invisible germs which are living organisms. Here is the germ of that terrible disease diphtheria. Here is the bacillus of typhoid fever; and here is the still more dreadful bacillus of tubercle which causes that most destructive of all diseases, consumption. This of that very common and supposed incurable disease, catarrh."

"I wish, Doctor," said the traveling man, "that you would tell us about catarrh. I have had it for years, and I am thoroughly discouraged."

The Doctor answered. "Catarrh, like diphtheria, consumption, typhoid fever, and a host of other diseases, is the result of a microbe invading the blood and attacking specially the mucous membrane. This foul and most disgusting disease is especially prevalent in the United States and it is rare to meet one who is not, or has not been troubled more or less with it. How often is he or she obliged to remain at home from pleasant entertainments, deprive themselves of many intellectual treats, from fear of the disagreeable odor arising from catarrhal affections. In its worst phase, the patient becomes loathsome both to himself and his friends.

"I believe," continued this great physician, "that the true way to heal catarrh is to medicate the blood. This can be done only by powerful alteratives which act as blood purifiers."

Betsy A. Marett, of Manistee, Manistee Co., Mich., writes:

Dear Sirs:—For ten years I was a sufferer from general debility and chronic catarrh. My face was pale as death. I was weak and short of breath. I could hardly walk, I was so dizzy and had a ringing in my head all the time. My hands and feet were always cold. My appetite was very poor. On getting up in the morning, my head swam so I was often obliged to lie down again. I had awful pains in the small of my back. I had a continual feeling of tiredness. My muscular power was almost entirely gone, and I couldn't go half a dozen steps without stopping to rest, and often that much exercise caused me to have a pain in my side. It seemed as though the blood had left my veins. The doctors said my blood had all turned to water. I had given up all hope of ever getting well. I tried the best physicians in the state, but failed to get any relief. My husband got me a bottle of Johnston's Sarsaparilla. I took it, and then I bought another. When these had been used, I was somewhat improved in health. I continued its use, and felt I was growing stronger; my sleep was refreshing, and it seemed as if I could feel new blood moving through my veins. I kept on taking it, and now consider myself a well and rugged woman. I work all the time, and am happy. I am positive that the Sarsaparilla saved my life. The sick headaches I have had since childhood, have disappeared, and my catarrh has almost entirely left me. I cannot be too thankful for what Johnston's Sarsaparilla has done for me. I recommend all women who have sick headaches to use your Sarsaparilla.

A Few of the Day's Happenings in Greensboro.

It was Mr. John W. King, instead of Mr. John L. King, who bought the Dick property, as noted in yesterday's Telegram.

Judge Adams and Attorney-General Walser spoke for the Republican ticket at Asheboro yesterday. A Republican who was present says they were heard by a large crowd.

The greater part of the day in Superior Court was consumed in hearing a case against Dr. Hilton, of Stokesdale, charging him with trespass. The jury brought in a verdict of not guilty.

Mrs. W. H. Wetmore, who was injured Saturday evening, is slightly improved today. She was walking across the street, instead of riding a wheel and was knocked down by a negro on a wheel riding very rapidly.

Mr. M. S. Sherwood, teller of the Greensboro National Bank, today detected a counterfeit two-dollar note among a lot of money brought in by a customer to be deposited. It was of series B, issued in 1891.

The union Sunday school excursion to Raleigh tomorrow will leave the passenger station at 7:30 a. m. The fare for the round trip is $1.50; children at half fare. This will afford an excellent opportunity to visit Raleigh for very little money. A pleasant trip is assured all who go.

Fred Tise, one of the witnesses in the liquor cases heard before the Mayor yesterday afternoon, has been indicted in Winston for playing detective. The Sentinel says he levied an assessment of $1.10 on the parents of two small boys, saying they had violated a city ordinance by fishing in Belo's pond.

Recital by Mrs. Miller's Music Class.

AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC.

Thursday evening, the 7th inst., Greensboro theatre goers will be given a rare treat, such as is to be accorded few Southern cities, in as much as the Lyceum Stock Company has agreed to give the city a date, on its tour South where it is to play one of the large cities for a long season. This is the company which for the past three weeks has been playing an engagement at Wilmington, N. C., and from the press of that city has thoroughly captivated the people. On the occasion of their appearance in this city, the management has decided to present the most talked of play of the century, Alphonse Daudet's celebrated "Sapho," which was first interpreted this country by Hyle Nethersole at Wallock Theatre, New York city. The Lyceum Stock Co, give this wonderful play a science production. Every detail being most carefully adhered to, even to the special stair case is carried by the company, and in the great supper scene a real supper is set. The play will be presented under the personal stage director of its adapter, Mr. W. Al Somers, and the beautiful leading lady, Miss Izetta Jewell, will appear as Sapho. Of their production in Wilmington, the Dispatch of that city says of Sapho:

The role of "Sapho," the central figure about which clusters the story of this love tragedy, was portrayed by Miss Izetta Jewell. Her work in this exciting role far surpassed anything she has yet done, a role requiring an intensity which might be easily overacted, and yet which in her hands was masterly held within attractive scope. The portrayal was commendably lacking in the least suggestiveness, and yet told most wonderfully and vividly the story of Fanny LeGrand's vacillating career. Miss Jewell's work was especially strong in the second and third acts, her curtain calls being well deserved. She is only sixteen years old.

Washington Post: Notwithstanding the insistance of the state department, the sultan is acting very much like a man who feels that he is on the exterior of a closed incident.
